

Look around you.
Everything changes.
Everything on this Earth is in a continuous state of evolving,
refining, improving, adapting,
enhancing... changing.

You were not put on this earth to remain stagnant.

The 2015 Cornucopia is dedicated to...

Jennifer Shelly graduated from the University of Virginia with a Bachelor's degree in Biology and English Literature. She then went on to earn her Master's in Biology from UVA and studied at the University Of Pennsylvania School Of Veterinary Medicine. She has held several positions in the animal field including research technician in a gastric cancer research lab, research assistant studying ALS in a transgenic mouse colony, and general practice clinician at the VCA Old Marple Animal Hospital. In the Fall of 2012, Dr. Shelly joined the staff at Delaware Valley University.

Dr. Shelly started out at DVU as an adjunct faculty member for the Pathology and Disease labs and was soon hired as a full time faculty member for the ABC department. She has taught many different courses here at DelVal, including Pathology and Disease, Wildlife Nutrition, Animal Behavior lab, Small Animal Research Techniques, and Senior Seminar. In the Fall of 2015, she will also be teaching Animal Assisted Activities and Therapies. Dr. Shelly received the Student Government Award for teaching in the Spring of 2014, which she said was "a great surprise and honor."

Aside from her teaching, Dr. Shelly is very involved with the students outside of the classroom as well. Throughout her time here, she has mentored several students in independent research projects, one of which included looking for the incidence of Cytauxzoon felis infection and Canine Distemper Virus infections in large captive felids. She has also worked with two students and the Penn Vet Working Dog Center to research the effects of different collars on stress behaviors in dogs. She is also the advisor for the DelVal Pre-Vet Club.

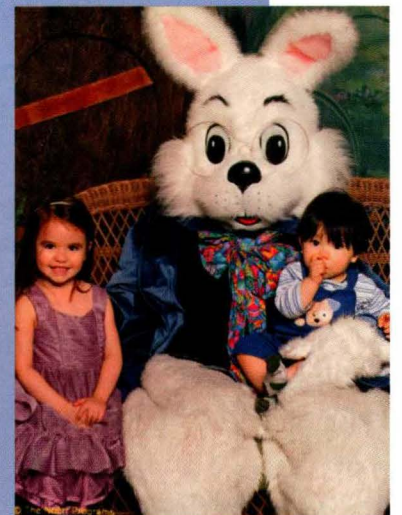

Although Dr. Shelly is original from the Phillippines, she has never lived there. Instead, she grew up in many various countries including Panama, Chile, and Egypt before moving to the US when she started college. She is married and has two children, Samantha and Bennett, who she explains as "two of the most adorable children to ever walk the Earth" and "quite possibly the best children in the history of the world." She ends every one of her class lectures with a picture of her children. She also has a cat named Leonard Nimoy, who, even though he could be the "handsomest cat in the world," is quite misbehaved.

Jennifer Shelly's hard work and dedication to teaching and helping her students has earned her the honor of being the 2015 Cornucopia Dedicatee. Thank you for all of your service for the DVU Community.

Delaware Valley University

The jagged line of students waiting to get free "university" T-shirts wound its way through the lobby of the Student Center and out into the Pub. I stood in the middle of all the excitement, helping to give out this souvenir of DeVal's new status as a university.

It clearly was a hot item. We couldn't give them out fast enough. More and more students crowded in, with everyone enjoying the frenzied pushing, the camaraderie and the shared pride.

This was April 8, the day our school officially became Delaware Valley University. It was the culmination of work that began in 2010 when the Board of Trustees approved the strategic plan. That plan was lengthy and detailed, but it all centered on DeVal taking this step up the academic ladder.

Over the past few years, as the plan was being implemented and as we launched programs that would qualify us for university status, we were thinking mainly about the future. On April 8, I couldn't help but think about the present.

All around me, I could see that our students were overjoyed with the change. It was like a big party, a true cause for celebration.

Groups of student were gathering around the new "Delaware Valley University" sign at the Butler Avenue entrance, climbing on it, taking pictures of themselves shouting to passing cars, "We're a university!"

Drivers honked back in support.

We had prepared long and hard for this day. Dignitaries came to campus. Speeches were made. Our new banners and logos were displayed. The day was nicely choreographed and went off without a hitch. But there was something I had not anticipated, and it occurred while a film crew was interviewing me in the library.

I was explaining my feelings on the day while standing in the closed-off alcove that was the office of our founder, Dr. Joseph Krauskopf. It has been preserved, just as he left it.

As the camera rolled, I was nearly overcome by a sense of history. Dr. Krauskopf had once sat where I stood. He gave birth to our university. Now it was me, an Irish guy from Brooklyn, who was charged with honoring the founder's legacy and building on it.

At that moment, the hair actually stood up on the back of my neck. A chill went down my spine.

It was evidence that something great has occurred.

University status happened because so many people, possessing love and appreciation for DeVal, labored so diligently on its behalf. Our leadership teams of faculty and staff, with the assistance of our trustees, achieved one for the record books.

I hope you were present to witness some of what I have mentioned here. Either way, I know you have been affected by it. The evidence is on your diploma, the first of its kind. As you journey into the world and search for your place, I ask simply that you always remember this.

History is for remembering, and you are now part of history.

Academics

Although the name has changed and the future of DelVal looks bigger and brighter, the school still has the same core values that it has always believed in:

Respect all others

Pursue excellence

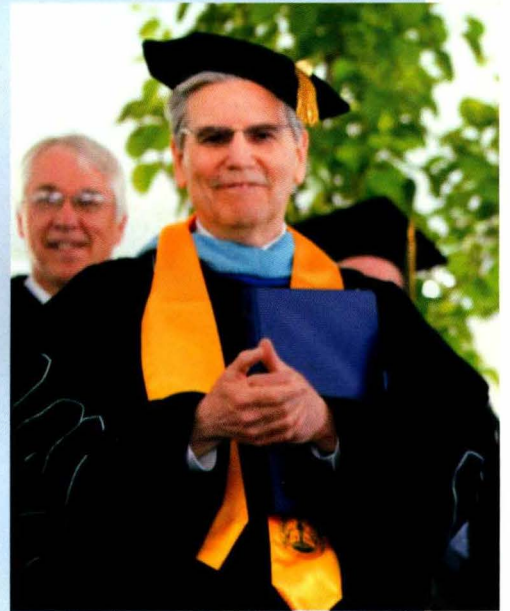

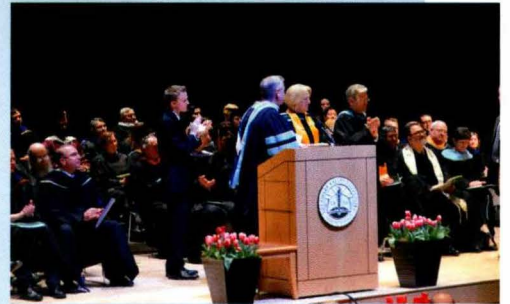

Value the world of ideas and differences

Teach, learn, and serve with passion and commitment

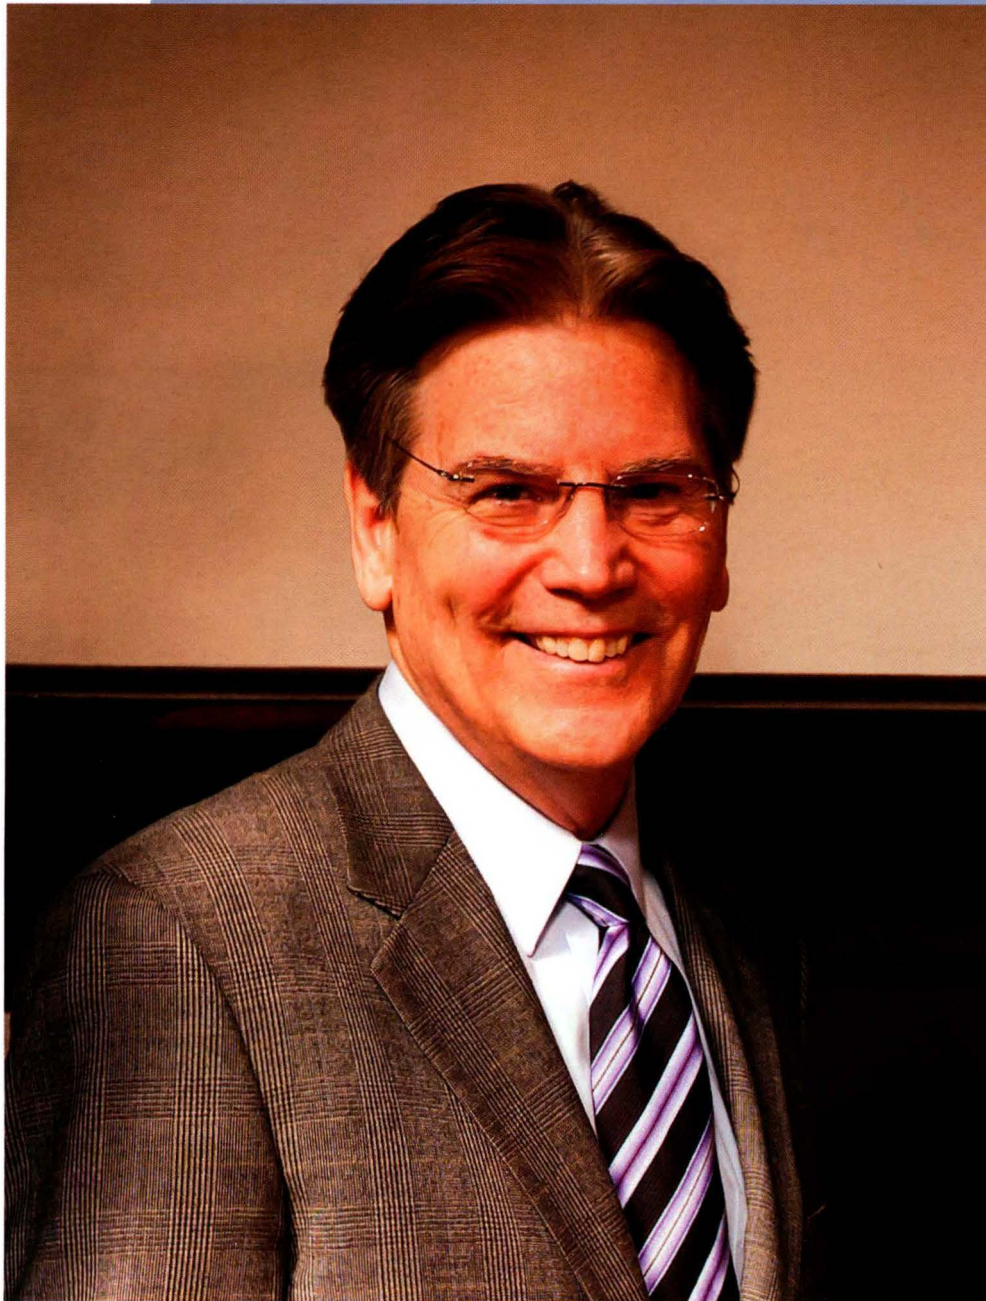

Live each day with integrity

Act as one learning community with one purpose

These core values are still here to guide the faculty and staff of DVU in helping the students reach their maximum level of greatness.

Dear Seniors,

As a graduating class, you will be the first in the institution's 118-year history to have entered a college and leave a university.

During the last few years, I'm certain you felt the transformational forces moving Delaware Valley College ahead. You probably did not know exactly how far these forces would take us, and that they would result in improvements in nearly all areas, including more master's programs, a doctoral degree and university status.

These advances, along with the accomplishments of our students, have earned DeVal greater recognition in the academic world. But it is my belief they also will have a personal impact on each one of you.

While studying here, you were immersed in a climate of growth and continuous improvement. You were a witness to the significant achievements of a school that always puts its students first. You saw what could be accomplished with an idea, a plan, hard work and a desire to be better.

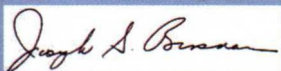

Walking the campus, you were living a lesson in life. If you take the time to look closer at what occurred, you might just see a formula for success – one that can be applied to everyone of our graduates, no matter what their major or desired career path.

I've always said that one of the best qualities of our students is their realization that the good things in life must be earned. What this means to me, is that you – as graduates of Delaware Valley University – will be equipped to follow the example of your alma mater. You will come to recognize the greatness in yourself, master whatever else you need to reach your goals, and achieve your full potential.

I'm so very proud of you, proud of DeVal, and proud that the world is going to be a better place because of our graduates.

Congratulations on a job well done, and for the fulfilling future you will bring to yourselves and others.

Sincerely,

Joe Brosnan
President

To the Class of 2015.

Congratulations! Completing your DeVal degree is a moment in time that deserves celebration. Now you get to enjoy the fruits of your labor.

You have cultivated lifelong friendships, gained confidence in your abilities, and faced academic challenges. Know that your experiences here at DeVal have prepared you to flourish in the wide world.

In the words of Robert Louis Stevenson:

Don't judge each day by the harvest you reap but by the seeds that you plant.

I encourage you now to go forward, every day planting seeds in your career, your family and your community that will result in the rich harvests of which I know you are capable. With the independence and knowledge you have gained, do great things, nurturing others along the way so they may thrive too.

I congratulate you on this achievement and know you will reap many more rewards in the seasons to come.

Sincerely,
Dr. Bashar W. Hanna

Dear Seniors:

While graduation may feel like an end-point, it's really just the beginning! Your experience as a student at DelVal may be ending, but a more lasting relationship as an alum is just beginning. As you experience the positive influence that your DelVal education will have on your life, I wish for you an enduring sense of affection and attachment toward DelVal.

As alums, you are part of DelVal's bright future as a university! By spreading the word about your alma mater, you extend DelVal's sphere of influence with prospective students you might encounter. As professionals, you can be a source for internships for current students. There are so many opportunities for continued engagement, and I hope you will see yourselves as stewards of DelVal's continued success.

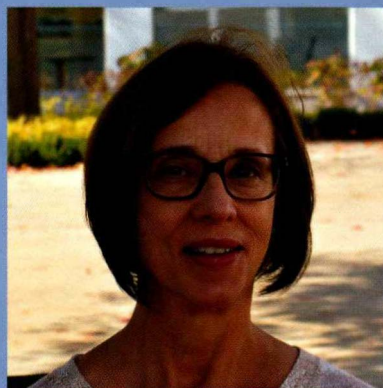

I know are taking treasured memories, friendships and experiences with you. Whatever your next step in life may be, I hope you will take with you the confidence that you are prepared to act, care, and lead in an increasingly complex world. Society needs your talents, and you are ready!

Thank you for all you have done during your time on campus. I wish you the best as you discover what's ahead. The ways in which you will use your DelVal education to make a difference in the world will be a source of great pride to us.

Best,
Dr. April Vari

To the Class of 2015:

Congratulations to you on your graduation from Delaware Valley University! As you move forward into this next chapter of your life, I ask that you reflect on your experiences here at DelVal and how they have prepared you for the opportunities and challenges that await you. Whether you are heading directly into your first post-DelVal job or commencing graduate or professional studies, your DelVal education has laid a solid foundation upon which you will build your future. We are proud of your many accomplishments and are grateful for having had the opportunity to serve as your teachers and mentors.

Remember to thank your family and friends who have supported you during your DelVal years. Cherish these individuals each and every day. Please also remember to keep in touch with your alma mater. We look forward to your support in the years to come!

I wish each of you much happiness and success, both personally and professionally, now and in the future.

Sincerely,

To the Class of 2015:

Congratulations to you on your graduation from Delaware Valley University! You now have a compass in your hand to provide you a direction heading for your future. Our goal was to provide you with preparation and inspiration for the next stage of your life.

Think back during your career here to a time when you faced some adversity or an obstacle. Remember the people here at DelVal that helped you past the problem. Use the confidence you have gained here as you move forward through life.

Take a moment and reflect upon something or someone that really stands out in your memory as positive. Remember, we are just an email or phone call away... We really do want to hear from you.

I wish you all the best in whatever and wherever your endeavors take you.

Sincerely,

Christopher Tipping, Ph.D.
Interim Dean of the School of Agriculture and Environmental Science

Dear Class of 2015.

It's difficult to believe that another school year has come to an end. But for you, this one is just not "another year," but your year! Congratulations on being a college graduate. You have worked hard, and now you can move on to the next important chapter in your life.

College has some familiar moments to many of us: students walked from class to class using their phones to communicate with others out there somewhere, they pulled all-nighters studying for exams or got up early to work on a farm, faculty spent weekends grading papers and preparing the next lab, and lots of good work was accomplished by the entire campus community—in classrooms, in fields, in offices, and out in "real world" experiences. As you look over the pages of this publication, prepared by your peers at DelVal, I hope you will recall some good moments and think back on the many, many more memories that could not be contained within its pages.

It's an exciting time at DelVal to be a student, faculty member, staff member, or alum. More and more people are now getting in on the DelVal secret—that the small classes and hands-on learning, in addition to a one-of-a-kind campus, are helping students graduate a step ahead of their peers.

We will welcome the fall of 2015 as Delaware Valley University. You are the last class to graduate from Delaware Valley College! Making this transition only adds value to your degree, earned from an institution whose 119-year history has always supported innovation, change and improvement.

I personally wish you all the success possible in your career, grad school, or whatever challenge awaits you. Remember us here by visiting, giving time or resources as an alum, and by passing the word that Delaware Valley College, now Delaware Valley University, is a great place to write your next chapter.

From the first week of every semester at DelVal, students have tons of chances to get involved. Over 70 various clubs and organizations exist that allow the students to make new friends and memories. These clubs also allow students to gain professional experience through leadership roles, public speaking, and various trips that may allow for networking opportunities. From clubs that allow you to simply have fun by dancing with the dance team to clubs that help you make a difference in the community like Becca's Closet, there is something for everyone here at DelVal!

STUDENT LIFE

Outside of class and homework responsibilities, the DVU students take the chance to do a number of fun activities! Pick-up football games, snowball fights, walks down to the farms, the list can go on. The possibilities are endless when you're having fun!

Sports

The 2014-2015 school year saw some big changes in the DVU sports department. There were five new sports teams introduced, including women's golf, men's and women's tennis, and men's and women's lacrosse. The DelVal Aggies football team made it to the playoffs for the 11th time in 12 years, the Cheerleading team won first place in their category at the Reach the Beach National Championships, and 6 wrestlers represented DVU at the 2015 NCAA Division III Championships in Hershey, PA.

This is just a snapshot of how great the sports teams are here at DVU! Great job to all athletes on another amazing year!

Cheerleading

The cheerleading team traveled to Ocean City, MD in April to compete in the Reach the Beach National Championships, where they won first place in the four-team, Collegiate-Small All-Girl category. This was the 5th time the team has won this competition.

Football

After completing their 7th straight winning season, the Aggies were selected to compete in the NCAA Playoffs and hosted a first round game.

Eleven players were selected to the ALL-MAC Football team. Rasheed Bailey and Chris Smallwood were named D3 All-Americans and Bailey also earned MAC Conference Offensive player of the year among many other honors.

Women's Soccer

The women's soccer team earned a NSCAA Team award for the 6th year in a row.

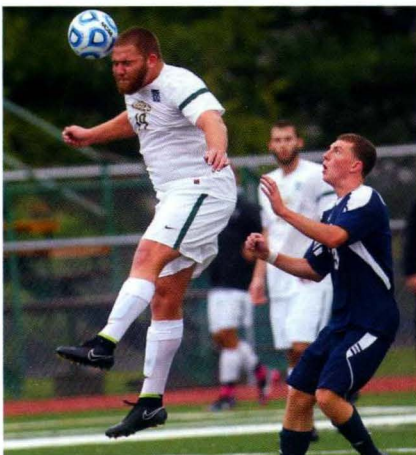

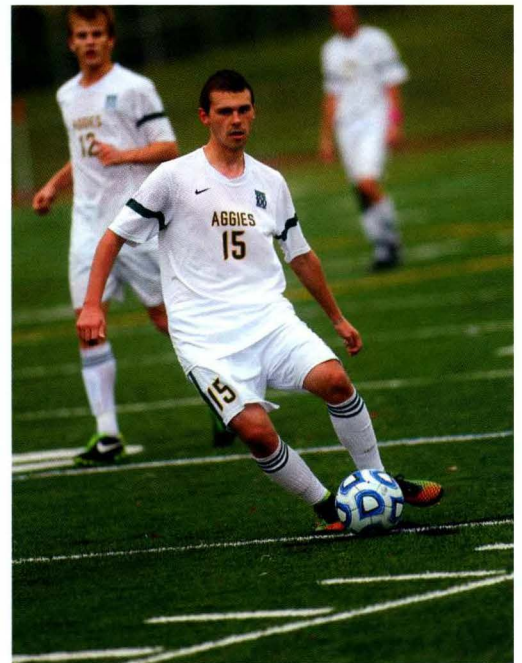

In addition Nikki Dunlap, Mary Taylor, Shayna Schaeffer, and Nicole Fanfarillo were named to the All-Freedom Conference Team.

Men's Soccer

Steve Mannato was named to the All-Freedom Conference Team, while Peter Tantillio and Max Drummond earned Fall MAC Academic Honors.

Volleyball

Senior, Crystal Ronan, became the first DVU volleyball player to reach 3,000+ assists in her career. In addition, Maria Cameron was named to the all-conference team as an honorable mention in her rookie season.

Women's Basketball

The women's basketball team made it to the Freedom Conference Playoffs for the second straight year. They were also selected for the ECAC South Region Playoffs but lost in the quarterfinals to Lebanon Valley.

Eiranna Anastasi and Brenna Coll were named to the All-Freedom Conference team.

Men's Basketball

The men's basketball team ended the season with 16-11 overall record and 10-4 in the Freedom Conference. Their season ended with a loss to Misericordia in the Freedom Conference Championship game.

Francis Arnold and Chris Moran were named to the All-Freedom Conference Team.

Track & Field

Freshman Ta'riq Thomas captured the MAC triple jump title and Brian Carter captured the title for the 60-meter dash. Thomas was also named Rookie of the Year.

Wrestling

The wrestling team ended their season with an overall record of 11-3 and placed 5th at the NCAA Division III Wrestling Championships held in Hershey, PA.

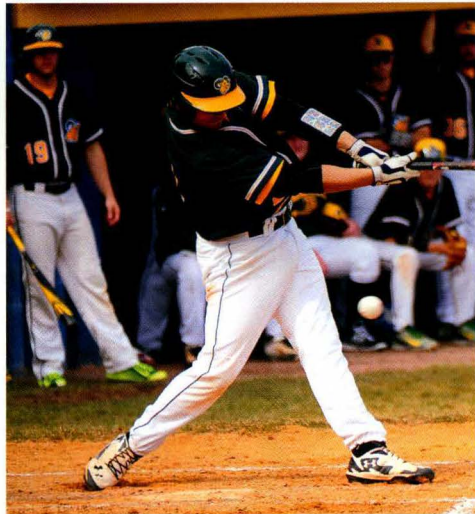

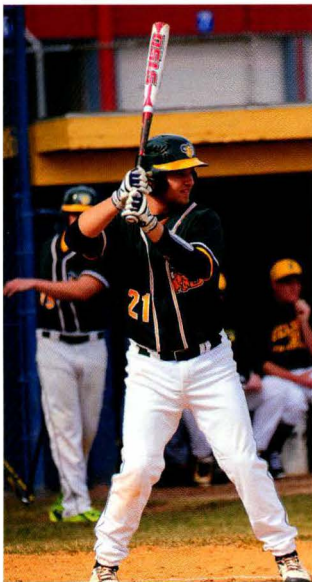

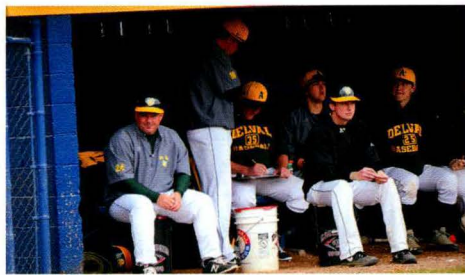

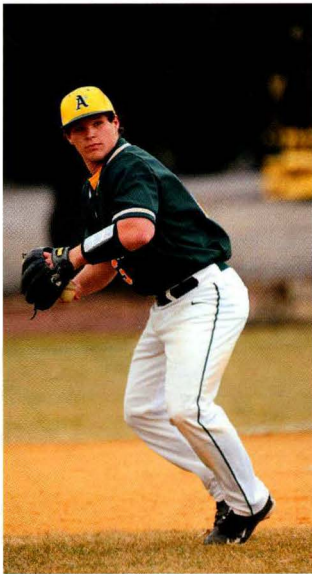

The team sent 6 national qualifiers and 4 of them earned the title of All-Americans.

The school celebrated the 20th straight year of having at least one All-American and its 8th straight year of having multiple All-Americans.

Baseball

The Aggies baseball team held a 13-23 record this season. Sophomore Kyle Wenger was named the 2015 Freedom Conference Player of the Year.

Softball

Senior Lauren Alvarez was named to the MAC spring sportsmanship team for her good character and sportsmanship on and off the field.

Men's Golf

The men's golf team wrapped up their season by finishing 4th at the Freedom Conference Championships. Dom Foti became the first Delaware Valley University golfer to win the Freedom Conference championship in nearly a decade as he pulled away to an 11-stroke victory at the two-day tournament held at the Hershey Country Club.

Field Hockey

The field hockey team finished 7-13 as Kelsey Zook and Lydia Spakosky earned first team All-Freedom Conference honors.

Cross Country

The Cross Country team showed great improvement throughout the season, and they hope to see the same level of improvement next season.

Women's Tennis

In it's first year of existence, the women's tennis team managed to capture its first win in program history this season as the Aggies beat Bryn Athyn College. They look to improve even more next season.

Men's Tennis

The men's tennis team, in their first year of collegiate competition since the 1960s, competed in the MAC Individual Championship. They had 5 players competing in singles and 2 doubles teams.

Women's Lacrosse

In it's first year of existence, the Delaware Valley women's lacrosse team finished 2-11. Freshman midfielder Kara Ines capped the Aggies' inaugural women's lacrosse season by being named to the all-Freedom Conference second team.

Men's Lacrosse

In it's first year of existence, the Delaware Valley men's lacrosse team finished 5-8.

Freshman defender Danny Smith was recognized by the Freedom Conference men's lacrosse coaches for his strong rookie campaign as he was named to the all-conference team as a second-team selection.

To the Class of 2015

Congratulations!! You have all just completed what many of you believe were the hardest four years of your life. You have overcome the endless hours of studying and sitting in classes and you all can finally say you are college graduates!

I was very happy again this year to be part of bringing you all a yearbook that you will look back on for many years to come and remember all the fun times that you had at DelVal. It has been a fun year filled with many great memories and I am excited to have captured these moments in this book.

I would like to send a special thank you to Mrs. Joann Donigan, without whom this yearbook would not happen year after year. Also, thank you to the staff members who worked hard to create this book into what it is. We really could not have done it without you all.

Graduates, I hope you all remember to always strive to make your dreams come true and make the most out of the life you have. Travel the world and explore new things you never thought you would be able to do. Live it up!

Best of luck to you all!!

Sincerely,

Rebecca Snavelly

Claire Donahue

This pony Monkey, elicits the "love for life" you abound your days with Claire. Your bond with Monkey strengthened the determination you gained through life's experiences to that love; for success. Pride, as strong a feeling as love; is what you have given us. Love, Mom, Dad, Patrick and all your family.

Lauren I. Alvarez

To Our Beauty,

You have made us so very proud. From birth you were a determined little girl. Look at you now! Being able to live your passion is a gift that many do not receive; you are truly blessed. You are on your way to medical school to follow your lifelong dream. Ross University will soon be known for bringing one of the best veterinarians into practice. We know you will continue to make your mark. Watch out world...

Here comes Dr. Lauren Ines Alvarez.

We love you deeply,
Your Family
